

HALF A KNIFE

An Amhara Resistance Writer's Reckoning

Baye Teshager Asmamaw

FOR ACQUISITIONS AND COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT

Library request sheet

Bibliographic details, catalogue summary, suggested subject headings, and ordering information for Half a Knife.

An honest reckoning. A wiser strategy.

Published September 2026 · ISBN 979-8-9974299-0-4 · halfaknife.com

Bibliographic details

Title	Half a Knife
Subtitle	An Amhara Resistance Writer's Reckoning
Author	Baye Teshager Asmamaw
Publisher	Published in the United States by Baye Asmamaw
Publication date	September 2026
Edition	First edition
Paperback ISBN	979-8-9974299-0-4
Ebook ISBN	979-8-9974299-2-8 (EPUB)
LCCN	2026920408
Extent	416 pages, 6 × 9 in
Contents	A prologue and 18 chapters; five appendices; a cast of characters; an index; a timeline of Ethiopian political events, 1991–2026
Illustrations	Photographs and charts
Language	English. The Amharic edition, ያልፈነጠቀ ጎህ, is complete — publishing inside Ethiopia.
Category	Political memoir · Testimony · Ethiopian history and politics
Audience	General adult; undergraduate and graduate courses in African studies, peace and conflict studies, media and disinformation, and life writing

Catalogue summary

AS PREPARED FOR THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS RECORD

A documented memoir of the Amhara political movement in Ethiopia, written by a participant. An engineer and former university dean, writing for seven years under the pen name Neakutoleab, records the years from his first dissenting Facebook posts to his withdrawal from public writing in 2023: the rise of a new Amhara political consciousness, the Gondar uprising of 2016, the diaspora campaign for United States House Resolution 128, the June 2019 assassinations in Bahir Dar and the disinformation that surrounded them, the Mai-Kadra massacre of November 2020, and the wars in Tigray and the Amhara region. Drawing on a dated archive of more than three thousand of his own posts and essays, on survivor testimony, and on human-rights reporting, the author examines how a people's struggle for survival was shaped — and misdirected — by the contest to control its story, and records his own errors alongside the record of others'.

Short summary

A participant's documented memoir of the Amhara movement in Ethiopia — from the Gondar uprising and diaspora advocacy in Washington to the Bahir Dar assassinations, the Mai-Kadra massacre, and the wars in Tigray and the Amhara region — drawn from the author's dated archive of over three thousand contemporaneous posts, essays, and letters.

Suggested subject headings

Proposed for cataloguing convenience. Verify each against current LCSH before use; they are not asserted here as established headings.

- Amhara (African people) — Ethiopia — Politics and government
- Ethiopia — Politics and government — 1991–
- Ethiopia — History — 21st century
- Tigray War, 2020–
- Political activists — Ethiopia — Biography
- Ethiopians — Migrations and diaspora
- Disinformation — Political aspects — Ethiopia
- Social media — Political aspects — Ethiopia

Genre terms

Autobiographies. Personal narratives, Ethiopian.

Author

Baye Teshager Asmamaw is an Ethiopian engineer and former academic dean who wrote on Amhara political affairs from 2015 to 2023 under the pen name Neakutoleab. Across Ethiopia, Italy, and the United States he wrote, organised, and broadcast for a movement he believed defended his people's life and dignity, and helped build several media organisations. He lives in the United States.

Ordering and contact

Both formats are available through the usual retail and library supply channels from September 2026. For standing orders, bulk or course orders, review copies, catalogue data, or an author visit, write to the addresses below.

Libraries	educators@halfaknife.com
Press and review	press@halfaknife.com
General	hello@halfaknife.com
Web	halfaknife.com

Corrections policy: if anything in the book is factually wrong, write to press@halfaknife.com with the passage and your source. Corrections are published rather than quietly made.